

Mogens: I'm Mogens Norgaard with OakTable News. I'm a certifiable Oracle professional.

Iggy: And I'm Iggy Nogood also with Oak Table News. I too am a certifiable Oracle professional.

Mogens: Wait a minute. There's a typo in this script. You mean "certified" Oracle professional?

Iggy: No. "Certifiable" Oracle professional. That's what your hat says. (Mogens takes off hat, looks at it, and puts it back on). As in "officially recognized as needing treatment for a mental disorder."

Mogens: We've got something special for you today. The top ten reasons why Thomas Kurian left Oracle.

Iggy: That Thomas Kurian?

Mogens: Yes, that Thomas Kurian.

Iggy: Go ahead.

Mogens: Reason #10: Larry put a fart cushion on his chair at the last board meeting.

Iggy: I'm glad I didn't have to say the fart word.

Mogens: You just did.

Iggy: Reason #9: He told Larry that the difference between God and Larry Ellison is that "God doesn't think he's Larry."

Mogens: Reason #8: He told Larry "it's my way or highway."

Mogens: Reason #7: He forgot royal etiquette at the board meeting and continued eating after Larry put down his fork.

Iggy: Reason #6: He actually died ten years ago but his twin brother George Kurian at Netapp who had been impersonating him all these years couldn't keep up the charade any more.

Mogens: Reason #5. He has been tapped for the US Supreme Court.

Iggy: Reason #4. Legal found out that he had not updated his OCP certification since Oracle7.

Mogens: Reason #3. He was let go for supporting Amazon's bid to buy Oracle.

Iggy: Reason #2: He was let go for registering for Oak Table World instead of OpenWorld.

Mogens: And the #1 reason Thomas is: (Iggy does a drumroll on the table)

Mogens: (Puts on MOGA hat) And the #1 reason Thomas is: He was let go for wearing a hat to work that said "M.O.G.A": Make Oracle Great Again.
